Quarry Park Friends File Suit to Stop Court Construction

A month after the State Green Acres Program told the Borough it would approve the construction of a basketball court in Quarry Park, the Friends of Quarry Park have filed a suit in State Superior Court to stop the $20,000 court from being built.

The suit was filed against the Borough of Princeton and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy, which administers Green Acres.

Neil Lewis, attorney for the Quarry Park Friends, said his clients believe the Borough and Green Acres are incorrect as to the change in use issue. The objectors contend that the basketball court constitutes a change in use. The Borough and Green Acres contend it doesn't.

The plaintiffs also charge that Borough Council gave no meaningful consideration to environmental impact and

Regional Health Officer Grants Reprieve To Dog Accused of Viciously Biting Woman

Tarreq, the now notorious dog owned by pharmaceutical heir J. Seward Johnson Jr., was granted a reprieve Monday night by Princeton Regional Health Officer William Hinshillwood.

Tarreq, a mixed breed described as part wolf, part Huskie, was under a possible death sentence for allegedly biting Mrs. Jane Dennison of Haslet Avenue on the calf in April, a wound which required her to spend 4½ days in the hospital.

Because Tarreq was the subject of other biting complaints, including one by former state senator Anne Martindell, who testified that her granddaughter had been bitten by Tarreq two years ago, Mr. Hinshillwood was given the task of determining the dog's fate. One of his options was to convene a vicious dog panel, comprised of dog experts, breeders and veterinarians, who would examine Tarreq and decide whether she was indeed vicious. If found to be vicious, a dog can be put to death.

Mr. Hinshillwood decided not to convene such a panel. Mr. Johnson, he conceded, had been cited for public health code violations concerning his animals and for not having them properly restrained by his dog walkers. And Tarreq had displayed aggressive behavior.

Instead of a panel, he directed Mr. Johnson to supply a plan for solving the problems. He has had, he said, some preliminary discussions with Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Hinshillwood had collected information and statements from police, witnesses and his own records but his decision was based primarily, he said, on the views of Mrs.

Head of Civil Rights Commission Resigns in Protest over Funding

Michael Jimenez, who successfully led the Joint Civil Rights Commission in pressing for more minority and female hiring in the municipal Police Departments, resigned Monday from the Commission. He said he acted to protest what he felt was a lack of commitment to civil rights on the part of Borough Council when it apparently refused to raise the $25,509 starting salary for a new director.

"We have had 40 applicants, a good two-thirds with a law degree, advanced degrees, and significant experience. To hire at $25,000 would be to hire an intern. Our priority is not on an intern position," Mr. Jiminoz said.

The position became vacant when long-time Civil Rights Director Joan Hill was dismissed in February.

Council met in closed session last Tuesday night, after interviewing the candidate for director selected by the Civil Rights Commission and Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon. No decision on hiring was made.

Mayor Marvin Reed said he was not impressed by Mr. Jimenez' move, and that it was well known that he had been scheduled to resign from the Commission to accept a new job at the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Jimenez, who has chaired the Commission for the past year and a half, said he would still continue to live in Princeton and that he would have been willing to stay on as a Commission member, but not as chair.

The Mayor accused Mr. Jimenez of completely ignoring the agreement on funding reached early this year by Borough Council and Township Committee, and of trying to increase the civil rights budget by 70 percent.

The agreement was not easy to get, said the Mayor. "In the last five or six years, there has been steady questioning as to whether to continue funding the Civil Rights Commission, sometimes on the part of Township Committee and sometimes on the part of Borough Council. We settled that issue, got a commitment to a budget, and advertised the position of director."

"I do not appreciate being told that the budget program worked out is no longer adequate and to have all sorts of accusations made against Borough Council and Township Committee as though they do nothing," said the Mayor. "We have done quite a bit to save the program. Many raised questions about keeping it at all."

Council Will Allow United Jersey Bank To Take Down Kiosk

Rejecting pleas by several in the audience, Borough Council last Tuesday night voted to accept United Jersey Bank's offer to remove the kiosk in front of its office at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon streets. The bank is willing to spend up to $10,000 to do this.

Council also rejected Roger Martindell's motion to allow the Arts Council a three-month trial period to see if it could maintain the kiosk in better shape. The bank, however, would not assure that the money to remove the kiosk would still be available at the end of the period.

Ray Wadsworth's motion to eliminate the kiosk at the expense of the bank was supported by Mark Freda and David Goldfarb. Mr. Goldfarb added his appreciation for what he called "the bank's generous gesture."

Mr. Martindell voted against the motion. Mildred Trotman abstained and Jane Terpstra had temporarily left the meeting.

Civil Rights

The current budget provides $25,509 for a director's salary and $3,000 for clerical expenses.

Under Mr.-Jimenez' direction, the Civil Rights Commission actively worked with Township and Borough Police on minority and female hiring. In the last several months, the Township has hired a black officer and the first two female officers in the Department.

Borough Police are currently in the middle of the hiring process, and report a much higher number of minority applicants.

Mayor Reed said Council would not be willing to go much above the $25,509 figure, but might provide some increase. Mr. Jiminez said he would like to see the starting salary closer to the top of the position's grade, which is $36,800, as well as an increase in the $3,000 for clerical support.

Council plans to meet Thursday night in closed session to discuss the director's position. Mayor Reed said he does not think anyone will be hired that night. "We have to go back to see where we are. The process has been too compromised, too complicated, by these kinds of carping."

"I have been conferring with Mayor Glasberg and Township Committee," said Mayor Reed. "As I understand it, they agree with my position entirely."

Mr. Jimenez is planning to contact Princeton pastors and others in the next few days to discuss the issue. "I heard from the community and governing bodies that civil rights was important," he said. "I also heard a reluctance to spend any more money."

Quarry Park

land use concerns raised by them at a number of Council meetings. "They felt the decision was arbitrary and unreasonable," Mr. Lewis said, "and they seek to overturn the decision to build the court on the issue of arbitrariness."

The Friends of Quarry Park asked that Green Acres reverse its decision. The agency's response, that it would not do so, was dated the day before the suit was filed. Had Green Acres changed its position, no suit would have been necessary.

Opposition to building the Quarry Park basketball court surfaced in March, when about 150 residents petitioned Borough Council not to go ahead with the construction. A number of people, however, spoke in favor of building the court, which was to replace a small court on Hamilton Avenue that was removed when affordable housing was built on the site.

In April, Council agreed to reduce the size of the court — but not to the half court asked for by opponents — and to change its position so it would cover less green area.

The lawsuit also contends that Borough Council must go before the Regional Planning Board with its plans for the basketball court so that they can be reviewed for environmental impact.

Further, Mr. Lewis said that Borough Council was in violation of the Sunshine Law when it discussed and gave consideration to modifying a plan for the basketball court after the end of an open public session.

"We can tell from the evidence that members did meet and discuss the modified plans and citizens' concerns after the meeting was adjourned," said Mr. Lewis.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Stephen J. and Sheila Kohke, John H. and Charlotte Plummer, Thomas and Lea E. Marshall, Thomas and Berit Marshall, and Alfred and Nancy Genung.

Concern for Seniors

"People are very upset about the impact the basketball facility will have on the character of the park, and its environmental impact," said Mr. Lewis. "They are also concerned about the impact on the senior citizens who live at Spruce Circle."

Informed of the lawsuit, Mayor Marvin Reed said he doesn't know why people spend so much money to try to obligate the Borough to spend money [on defending its position in court] "when every dollar they have collected could have gone into making improvements, like other friends of parks have done."

He added that several of the plaintiffs live near the park, but others do not, and some don't even live in the Borough.

Recently, several Council members voiced concern about the amount of legal fees a Quarry Park suit might cost the Borough. "They spoke prematurely because any comments made to that effect only invite this kind of litigation," said the Mayor.

Borough Tax Deadline Delayed to September

Borough Council last week voted to extend the date for the payment of Borough third-quarter taxes from August 1 to September 1. Payments made after that date will be subject to normal interest charges.

The move was taken in response to delays by the State in reviewing local municipal budgets.

Planning Board Postpones Vote On Institute's Development Plan

The Princeton Regional Planning Board deferred its vote on the Institute for Advanced Study's General Development Plan (GDP) at the Board's Thursday night meeting. Board members wanted to review the plan further, and chairman Joseph O'Neill agreed to appoint a subcommittee to report to the Board and offer recommendations to the Institute.

This is the latest development in the ongoing story of the Institute versus the Planning Board, which dates back to January 1990. At that time, the Institute filed a complaint against the Planning Board in response to the Community Master Plan of 1989, which severely limited the development of Institute property, thus sharply reducing its value, according to Institute officials.

During the next two years, the Planning Board and Institute met publicly and privately, and discussed numerous proposals in an effort to come to an agreement. There were also open hearings in which comments from the public were encouraged.

The result of the negotiations was a settlement agreement, approved both by the Planning Board and by Princeton Township Committee in December 1992.

Increase of 88 Units

Key elements of the settlement agreement include a

TOPICS Of the Town

clustered development within a 105-acre farmland area west of the existing campus and east of Quaker Road. The total number of units permitted is 276, 88 more than the 188 units allowed under the Master Plan (which had limited development to 73 acres). The Institute also agreed to postpone development until January 1, 2002.

In addition, no development or lotting would be allowed within the Institute Woods and the Quaker Woods, or the farmland between the development area and Quaker Road, or the 100-foot buffer strip and the Stony Brook floodplain, or the 52-acre area west of Quaker Road. The total acreage to remain in preserved open space is approximately 484 acres, or 82 percent of the entire Institute property.

The Institute would also lease at a nominal rate ($1 per year) to the Township sufficient acreage in the farmland preservation area for two athletic fields. The location has been tentatively set in the farmland area near the Quaker Meeting House.

A school site of less than 100 acres would also be provided within the development area, if the need arises.

A major part of the settlement agreement is the General Development Plan, provided by the Institute, and which the Board discussed at Thursday's meeting. The plan "plotted out" the settlement agreement provisions, showing locations for development, access roads, open space, wetlands, as well as number of units.

Richard Collier Jr., the Planning Board's planning consultant, reported to the Board, giving a description of the GDP and background information. He pointed out that the open space areas "are a highly-valued component of the community's land use pattern, combining environmentally sensitive resources, historically significant lands, and an important 18th-century agrarian landscape and major gateway into the Princetons. For these and other reasons, the settlement agreement and the GDP seek to preserve as much of this landscape as possible."

Mr. Collier also referred to access to the development area, which "would be a main public roadway from Quaker Road, between the Quaker Meeting property and a point approximately 380 feet to the south where the floodplain line moves away from the road.... The second access is a private emergency access road with an 18-foot-wide gravel cartway

J.B. Winberie Waiters Capture Top Honors In Annual Bastille Day Race in Palmer Square

A HUG FOR THE WINNER: Joelle Catania, who won second place in the annual Bastille Day Waiter's Race, hugs Ryan McCullough, first-place winner. Both are employed at J.B. Winberie.

Under a hot sun, participants in the annual Bastille Day waiters' race circled the green in front of the Nassau Inn. Their elbows high, balancing a tray that held an empty split of Champagne and a full glass of water, they moved as quickly as they could under the circumstances. Their gait most resembled that of a duck.

Scores watched the race, building an appetite for the variety of food that was being sold on the green. From the tables on the terrace of the Nassau Inn, several people, the men in suits and ties, watched with a bemused look.

Twelve signed up for the race, which offered a bed-and-breakfast weekend at the Nassau Inn as first prize. The winner was Ryan McCullough, 21, a waiter at J.B. Winberie and a student at Trenton State College.

Speed and stamina were the ingredients that gave him the edge, said Mr. McCullough, a first-time participant.

Looking toward his weekend at the Inn, he said, "Now, if I can find some lucky girl to go with me." He added, "It was a lot of fun. It was good to see a lot of people." Mr. McCullough plans to enter again next year.

Joelle Catania, a waitress at Winberie, took second prize. This was dinner for two in Manhattan and brunch for two at Winberie.

She and Pam Hersh, Princeton University's director of state and community affairs, were the only women in the race. Ms. Hersh, who represented Prospect House, won a consolation prize for her diligence in running the race year after year. She received a compact disc set of the nine Beethoven symphonies.

About 200 people showed up to watch the race and enjoy the food. The ambience was French, with outdoor umbrellas, flowers on a cart, and French breads. But much of the food had a distinctly American feeling. No one can say barbecued hamburgers and chili are among the average French person's four major food groups.

This year's annual celebration might have been called Bastille Day Plus Two, since it was postponed from Wednesday, July 14, to Friday. It was sponsored by the Nassau Inn, J.B. Winberie, and Perrier-Jouet Champagne.

In good July 4 and July 14 tradition, the evening ended with a display of fireworks.

connecting the development area to Maxwell and Olden Lanes through the Institute Woods and campus." This road is not intended for regular daily use.

Question of Access

The access roads became a subject of discussion. Board member and Princeton Borough Council Mayor Marvin Reed said the settlement agreement called for two access roads, pointing out that one access road and an emergency gravel road were not adequate during times when Quaker Road is flooded.

Institute attorney Thomas Jamison replied that the plan was a "conceptual road plan" and could be modified. "It is not the intent of the applicant to change any part of the settlement agreement," he noted. "We did not understand the question of access as you did. We thought people wouldn't want a major road through the woods. If the Board in its wisdom wants to change the roads, that is acceptable to us."

Associate Director of the Institute Allen Rowe added that "I really think life should be a lot simpler than this. Our interest was to lock in the zoning for the future, and the only way is to produce a General Development Plan. We want to keep it as conceptual as possible, and we want to emphasize that our objective is not to build on the land. We have agreed not to develop until the year 2002. We don't assume that we ever will, and the Institute prefers not to do so. But we have given up some rights and opportunities."

Professional planner Gerald Lenaz, whose firm prepared the GDP for the Institute, noted that the proposed development area was located as far back as possible from the historic and natural areas. He said that within the development area, lot sizes could be reduced or enlarged, adding that "The gross density is less than one half unit per acre or .47 dwelling unit per acre. This is extremely low density in terms of development."

He also referred to the conceptual layout for storm water detention, retention, sewers, electric, telephone and natural gas.

Friends Meeting Concerns

During the open hearing, two representatives of the Friends Meeting, Ann Yasuhara and Elizabeth Hume, commented on their concerns with the plan.

"The main access road goes very close by the Quaker Meeting House, and this is not consistent with the Quaker notion of silence and peacefulness," noted Mrs. Yasuhara, adding, "I was glad to hear that another big public road will not be built through the woods, but instead one consistent with the natural setting."

Ms. Hume was worried about the possibility of athletic fields near the Friends Meeting House, noting that, "From 9 to 12 on Sundays are not the only quiet times, and we want the atmosphere to be preserved there."

The majority of the Board members decided they wanted more time to study the proposal before voting on the General Development Plan. The Institute, while agreeing to the postponement, pointed out that there "are unknowns that won't be known between now and next week and now and September."

The Board expects to vote on the GDP at a September meeting.

TWO-TERMER: Phyllis Marchand, Deputy Mayor of Princeton Township, was recently sworn in for her second term as President of the New Jersey Association for Elected Woman Officials by Governor Jim Florio at the State House.

Committee Will Hold Tax Increase to 3 Cents

Princeton Township Committee voted to modify its 1993 budget at Monday night's meeting, thus deferring its final adoption of the budget until next week. If Committee approves the budget at that time, the tax rate will rise three cents (to $.88 per $100 of assessed value) instead of the expected four cents.

In addition, property tax bills will be delayed, and an extension will be granted to residents for payment.

A lengthy discussion revealed divergent fiscal philosophies on the part of Committee members and the numerous Township residents who attended the meeting. At issue, in particular, was the $128,370 in gross receipts and franchise tax revenue allotted to the Township by the state. At an earlier meeting, Committee had voted to place that money, as well as $21,630 in surplus funds, into a capital fund either for a new or renovated municipal building and police station.

At Monday's meeting, Committeewoman Ellen Souter strongly objected to that use of the money, declaring that "This gift is being misused. It was meant to be for a reduction of taxes and not for any other purpose. To put the funds aside with the thought that we might spend it in the future is wrong. Its proper use is for tax relief now. People can't afford to live here anymore."

Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand took a different view. "We spent weeks and weeks doing the budget," she pointed out. "We knew we might be getting the money, and we planned to put it aside. It doesn't mean we have to spend it, but it's there and ready to go when we need it. By not putting it aside, we are duping the public, because we will just have to raise taxes later."

Residents Join In

During the open hearing, several Township residents enthusiastically joined the discussion. The majority supported Mrs. Souter's proposal to use the $128,370 for tax relief, and they were also very disturbed over the possible $9 million cost for a new municipal complex.

"The thing that has aroused all of us is this $9 million for a municipal building and police department," stated Eric Reichl of 150 Brooks Bend Road. "There's no argument you need to spend for improvements, but $9 million is one hell of a lot of Taj Mahal!"

Another Brooks Bend resident, Harold Broitman, advised Committee to "look into the budget a little more imaginatively and try to save money. This is not the time to increase any taxes. This town is overtaxed. The direction should be to-buildings properly used No $9 million please!"

Committee pointed out that the $9 million cost was just one architect's estimate, and there were no plans to vote on such an amount.

Brooks Bend resident Jan Buck also referred to the overburdened taxpayers. "My feeling is that you really have to look at the budget again. Your surplus is my deficit. I say let the public vote on it. This is not Township money, it's not the state's money, it's the taxpayers' money. Plan improvements that are responsive to the community, and keep in mind the financial well-being of its citizenry and the ability of people to live here."

Another point of view regarding use of the $128,370 was ofior citizens or cut library hours, people will come to the meetings and demand that those services be continued."

Motion Posses

At the end of the discussion, a motion to allot the $128,370 grant for tax relief was passed. Mayor Laurence Glasberg, Frederick Porter, and Ellen Souter voted in favor. Mrs. Marchand and Sharon Bilanin were opposed.

Mayor Glasberg complimented the public for its active participation. "I want to thank you for coming and speaking up. I strongly urge you to continue to do that."

Earlier, Jefferson Road resident Steve Paul noted that it is not always easy for people in the community to make their views known. "How can the public effectively participate? How can we be involved in time to affect policy?" he asked. "What is the mechanism to get involved at the earliest possible point of discussion?"

Committee advised him to note listings of meetings of community groups and agencies in the local newspapers and at the Borough and Township municipal buildings. Committee members can also inform the public regarding subcommittees dealing with special issues.

In other business, Committee introduced bond ordinances providing funds for various capital improvements (bridges, roads, buildings, and equipment), including joint improvements with Princeton Borough, to the Fire Department and the library. Public hearings will be held on these ordinances, including one on the music amplification code, on August 16.

In addition, Committee held a public hearing on and subsequently approved an ordinance authorizing a more flexible approach to the Princeton Township Affordable Housing program.

Under the Ordinance, the number of persons in a household and the size of the house for which they qualify can be adjusted according to specific need.

Committee also passed a personnel policy regarding harassment. It protects workers from harassment based on age, race, sex, disability, national origin, religion, ancestry, and/or sexual orientation.

Assistant administrator Sarah Purdy, one of the authors, noted, "Basically, its purpose is to make sure that everyone understands we don't approve of harassment, and it gives people a method of dealing with incidents if they arise. The fact that the Township didn't have a policy before didn't mean it condoned harassment. There just was no set procedure in place."

Correction

In last week's article on Benedict Yedlin and the 449th Bomb Group, the 449th did not participate in the August 1, 1943 low-level attack on Ploiesti. Also, the oil refineries were located 35 miles northwest of Bucharest (Romania), not Budapest (Hungary).

Teen Writers, Artists Appear in MCCC Journal

Scores of Mercer County teenagers have become published authors in Aspirations '93, a literary journal showcasing the creative writing talents of area high school students.

An annual publication of Mercer County Community College, Aspirations '93 has been produced each spring since 1980. It contains poems, short stories, essays and art work from students attending 13 public and parochial high schools in Mercer County.

Participating high schools are, Allentown, Ewing, Hamilton West, Hightstown-East Windsor Regional, Hopewell Regional, Lawrence, McCorristin, Nottingham, Princeton, Steinert, Trenton Central, Villa Victoria Academy and West Windsor-Plainsboro.

The work of 135 students appears in the 13th edition of Aspirations, and is reflective of today's multi-talented student population, said Dr. Vera Goodkin, MCCC professor of English/French, who edited this year's compilation.

Contributions were selected from a field of more than 1,000 entries. A jury panel, consisting of high school instructors and Mercer faculty and staff, chose the prose and illustrations for this year's edition.

The topics of the students' works reflect their hopes, dreams and concerns. The journal contains fond memories of "First Love" and "New England Autumns" along with sentiments on such weighty concerns as cancer, child abuse and the environment. Love and other matters of the heart are common themes, as are family concerns and coming of age in the '90s.

Aspirations '93 is funded in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, and the New Jersey Cultural and Heritage Commission.

Cash Missing from Office: Borough Clerk Is Charged

Patty Yates, who has worked as a license clerk in Borough Hall for almost nine years, was arrested last week and charged with the theft of cash from the Administrator's Office.

Yates, a 48-year-old Clay Street resident, is alleged to have taken in excess of $500 from parking meter permit fees that were paid over the counter in cash. She was suspended without pay the day of her arrest. If charges against her are upheld, she will be dismissed, said Mayor Marvin Reed.

"I was very shocked and surprised and saddened by the situation," said Mayor Reed. "She was very good with the public and with people coming into Borough Hall. She not only sold them parking permits, fishing and dog licenses, she gave out information about the town. She was a very pleasant person."

According to Lt. Anthony Federico, police were alerted by some improprieties in the parking permit funds. "Upon investigation, it was discovered monies were missing."

The initial investigation, lasting one and a half days, was conducted by Det. Ralph Terracciano and Lt. Federico. It is being continued, Lt. Federico said, by members of the department's Detective Bureau. "At some point, the files have to be audited," he said.

Ms. Yates allegedly had been stealing small quantities of cash for the past several months. Exactly how long and how much is still being investigated.

In addition to her duties as a license clerk, Ms. Yates served as a secretary to Mayor Reed and Borough Clerk Penelope S. Edwards-Carter.

Sex Assault, Lewdness And Drugs Are Charges

Princeton residents last week were charged with aggravated sexual assault, injecting heroin and lewdness in separate incidents.

On Monday, after surrendering himself at Township police headquarters at 4:45 p.m., Borough resident Guillermo DeLeon, 36, was charged with aggravated sexual assault and endangering the welfare of a child 13 and under. He was scheduled to be arraigned in Township court where bail will be set.

The incident that DeLeon is charged with took place sometime between May, 1987 and July, 1988. "It came to light just recently," said Capt. Samuel Bianco, "when the victim came forward within the past two weeks." The victim, who is presently under age 13, was brought to headquarters by family members, Capt. Bianco said.

There was, he said, a "family connection" between the victim and DeLeon, who has been living here since the alleged incident. "It is still under investigation," said Capt. Bianco.

Under Influence of CDS

Twenty-year-old Township resident Gregory N. Hunt was charged with being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance early last week, after he suffered an apparent drug overdose at his home.

According to Capt. Bianco, a relative called police at 2:01 last Monday morning to report Hunt was unresponsive. He was taken to Princeton Medical Center where he was worked on by medical personnel.

Hunt stated to police that he had given himself a shot of heroin with a needle and had suffered an overdose.

3 Counts of Lewdness

Township resident John Grasso, 59, was charged with three counts of lewdness following an incident Saturday afternoon at the Community Park Pool.

Two Township women and a third from Long Island, ages 32, 31 and 25, each signed complaints against Grasso, charging that Grasso had pulled the side of his shorts up while sitting on a grassy bank next to the pool. The victims told police they were sitting close by.

Grasso was arrested and later released.

A 17-year-old Lawrenceville juvenile was arrested and charged with defiant trespass at the Burger King restaurant, 84 Nassau Street.

The youth, police report, has been warned in the past by the manager about trespassing. He returned Thursday afternoon and when he refused to leave, the manager called police at 1:38. The youth was placed under arrest by Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel, taken to headquarters, processed and later released to his parents.

Annual Meeting Is Held By Opponents of Airport

Trustees were elected and opposition to expansion of Princeton Airport was reaffirmed at the annual meeting of Communities for Responsible Airport Management, Inc. (CRAM) held recently.

The citizen coalition, which monitors the impact of Princeton Airport on residents of Montgomery Township, Princeton and Rocky Hill, established contact with local state and federal officials last year by presenting a petition opposing jet traffic at the field. Such traffic is prohibited by the Montgomery zoning variance under which the airport operates. More than 1,500 residents in the area signed the petition.

CRAM has also been active in monitoring a proposed master plan that the owners of Princeton Airport are drawing up. The owners hope to begin a $10 million expansion under the plan, with 95 percent of the cost paid for by taxpayers through grants from the New Jersey Department of Transportation and the Federal Aviation Administration.

"To put the size of an expansion like this in perspective, one should consider that $10 million is approximately five times the present value of the airport, as determined by a recent appraisal authorized by the Montgomery Township Committee," said Eugene Baker of Montgomery, a CRAM trustee. CRAM believes the expansion would have a negative impact on the environment and the quality of life of residents living near the airport.

nounced that it would continue to conduct environmental, economic and technical assessments of the proposed airport expansion and the effect on residents of the area. The board urged residents of the three towns to support these efforts. There are still opportunities to serve on CRAM committees.

Clients Are Reimbursed In Air Ticket Deception

"We've taken care of our clients," the owner of a travel agency office here said this week, after Borough police reported that airline tickets worth almost $5,000 purchased at the agency were later declared to be fraudulent.

Lt. Anthony Federico reported that a Plainsboro resident had purchased two tickets to Bombay, India on June 7 for $2,510 from Phoenix Travel, Inc. located in Suite 122 in the 20 Nassau Street building. Anchased two tickets to Bombay on June 22 for $2,380. As the four, all Indians, went to Kennedy International Airport in New York preparing to board a Delta flight, they had their tickets confiscated, Lt. Federico said. They were told they were fraudulent.

The victims were able to purchase new tickets at the airport, he said, and proceed to India. Before leaving, they had family members report the incident to police. Members of the Borough Detective Bureau are investigating.

Speaking from his New York office, Afzal Kahn of Phoenix replied, when asked to comment, "that as far as our clients are concerned, we are responsible and we made up the loss. We have taken care of them — but we did not issue the tickets."

In the airline business, Mr. Khan explained, "we buy tickets from whoever gives us the best discounts." There are, he said, wholesalers in the business, who make millions of dollars, who give commissions to travel agencies. Phoenix purchased the tickets to Bombay from a wholesaler in Belle Mead, "which turned out to be a big problem for me," said Mr. Kahn, "because he turned out to be a bad guy."

Three Trailers Entered At Calton Homes Project

Three construction trailers at the Washington Oaks development off Route 206 being erected by Calton Homes, Inc. were forced open between Thursday and Friday morning.

As assortment of tools and $300 was taken from one. From a second — owned by a Mountainside plumbing firm — various tools and equipment valued at $1,700 were taken. A third trailer was forced open but nothing was taken, Township police report.

A resident of Ocean Township lost tools worth $1,025 when someone broke a window to enter his van which was parked overnight during the weekend on Princeton-Kingston Road near the boat dock. Police said the victim had parked to go fishing in Lake Carnegie.

Two Hondas, both unlocked, both parked in front of their owner's home on Clover Lane, were entered during the weekend. The glove compartment of a 1985 model was rifled but nothing was taken; nothing was taken, either, from a 1988 model.

A Lakeville, Conn., resident, staying in Patton Hall on the University campus while serving as a summer lacrosse camp coach, told police his wallet containing $30 was stolen last week either from Dillon Gym or Mathey Dining Hall.

A University student listed the theft of his Casino mountain bike from Spelman Hall. He valued the unlocked bike at $100.

A Nassau Inn employee told police that someone entered the women's locker room at the Inn last week and pried open her locker. The thief then rifled through her purse but left empty-handed because, police said, there was nothing of any value in the purse.

A former employee of Kinko Copiers, 33 Witherspoon Street, stole a manual and repair kit for a copy machine but police said the value of the items is not known and the suspect has not been charged.

Impairment Charge After Erratic Driving Stop

A 28-year-old Plainfield resident, Jose D. Rojas, has been charged with driving while impaired, after his car was stopped on State Road.

Pfl. Judd Petrone stopped the car at 2:50 in the morning when he observed it being operated in an erratic manner. Rojas was taken to headquarters, where he submitted to a Breathalyzer test which produced two readings of .07 or impaired. A reading of .10 or higher is required for a driver to be considered legally intoxicated.

Airport Expansion Study Criticized at Meeting

Princeton Airport was again the subject of discussion at a Princeton Township Committee meeting. At Monday night's session, Montgomery Township resident Kathleen Timmes asked Committee to join a letter-writing campaign to U.S. Congressman Richard Zimmer and other officials in an effort to halt the airport's current expansion study.

The master plan calls for a $10 million expansion, she explained, which means "bigger, longer, wider, and noisier aircraft."

A member of Communities for Responsible Airport Management (CRAM), Mrs. Timmes spoke urgently of the danger to residents near the airport. She reported recent incidents of low-flying planes, which she termed "harassment."

Mrs. Timmes also noted that the lack of public input at the Technical Advisory Committee meetings on the airport study plan "is extremely alarming. Unless everyone gets up and makes a lot of noise, this project just keeps rolling."

Earlier, Committeewoman Ellen Souter had agreed that there was not enough public participation at the Technical Advisory Committee meetings. "There is no press there and no residents. We want a viable airport, and we have to work with the airport to address its needs," she said. "But what are the alternatives? There are major safety issues at this airport."

In reply to Mrs. Timmes, Mayor Laurence Glasberg said Committee would discuss the matter and decide what course of action to take.

Daughters were born to Christopher and Cindy McGuigan of Plainsboro, Timothy and Wanda Kiely of Plainsboro, both June 26; Kenneth and Cynthia Pizzolato of Belle Mead, Fred and Rosina Racioppi of Belle Mead, both on June 28; Timothy and Angela Son of Princeton, June 29; and James and Catherine Zambito of Belle Mead, July 1.

A son was born on July 1 to David and Christine Kuna of Plainsboro.

School Board, Teachers Meet State Mediator

Bargaining teams from the School Board and the Princeton Regional Education Association sat down last week with a State mediator in a session that lasted until 2:30 in the morning.

The mediator, Robert Glasson, had not been expected to meet with the Board and union until after Labor Day. Candace Preston, who heads the Board's negotiating team, said members had been able to convince him to schedule this earlier meeting. She declined to comment on the negotiations.

The teachers' contract expired June 30. The terms of the old contract continue to apply until a new agreement is reached.

Aviation enthusiasts of all ages are invited to tour Princeton Airport Thursday mornings at 10:30 during July and August, weather permitting.

The tours will be conducted by Naomi Nierenberg, co-owner of the airport and president of the flying school located on premises. "Our tours have been extremely successful in the past," said Ms. Nierenberg, "and we are looking forward to entertaining individuals or groups that are interested in seeing the airport from the inside. Everyone from preschoolers to senior citizens find the world of aviation fascinating," she added.

Starting with the different types of aircraft based at Princeton, the walking tours take the visitor through some of

Cancer Center Director To Speak at Symposium

Jane Rodney, director of the Princeton YWCA Breast Cancer Resource Center (BCRC), will speak at a symposium on breast cancer at Mercer Medical Center this fall. She will gear her lecture toward women and address the psychosocial aspects of living with the disease.

Since becoming director of the BCRC two years ago, Ms. Rodney has worked to increase public awareness of breast cancer with numerous community awareness programs, guest speakers and an outreach program. She stresses the importance of reaching healthy women and making them aware of methods which can detect breast cancer and reduce the risk of its onset.

The symposium, Breast Cancer — An Epidemic, will target breast cancer survivors and all women concerned about breast cancer. The seminar represents the first joint effort teaming the resources of The Regional Cancer Center at Mercer Medical Center, the Breast Cancer Resource Center of the Princeton YWCA and the Mercer County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Other topics which will be addressed include nutrition and breast cancer, reconstructive surgery, radiological studies and recovery.

For more information, call 497-2126.

New Group Forming, 'Friends of Music at JW'

A group of parents will meet Thursday, July 29, at 7:30 p.m. at 70 Balsam Lane to form a group to support the choral and instrumental music program at John Witherspoon School. Any interested person is welcome and encouraged to attend.

"We will discuss our goals and priorities at the first meeting," said Richard Fischer, an organizer of the group. "We appreciate the fine music education our children have been receiving at John Witherspoon and hope to pool the resources of parents to support the music teachers."

Because of the retirement of Joachim Parrella, the school will be hiring a new choral director. "This is an opportunity to continue an already fine music program," said Lindsay Christiansen, who is the chairperson of the voice department at Westminster Choir College and a middle school parent. "We have an obligation to help any way we can to continue the commitment to excellence in music education that has been a tradition at John Witherspoon."

A number of parents are interested in helping expand the program, which is already quite popular, to reach even more students. Jenny Crumiller, whose daughter plays the saxophone and is in the chorus, is one of those parents, "I think a group like this could help draw in more kids," she said. "I hope many parents with ideas come to this meeting."

For information, call Richard Fischer at 497-7569.

Electronic Card Scanning At Princeton U. Library

Work has begun this summer to scan more than 6.5 million catalog cards representing the 1.75 million volumes in Princeton University Libraries' pre-1980 collection. When completed, the new electronically formatted card catalog will complement the existing On-line Catalog of 810,000 items logged since 1980.

When the first-of-its-kind project is completed late this summer or early in the fall, Princeton will have the largest image database of any library in the world.

One purpose of the project is to preserve the aging paper cards before deterioration makes that impossible. An estimated 700,000, or 11 percent, of the cards are now in some state of deterioration.

In addition to preserving and automating the card catalog, the project is expected to yield greater speed and ease of use for faculty members and students searching for pre-1980 materials.

To minimize disruptions for catalog users, the library and project vendor are conducting the scanning on-site. Fifty-one drawers at a time are being pulled for scanning during eight-hour shifts and then returned. To ensure quality, the library staff is inspecting statistically significant samples for scanning errors. With work expected to go forward at the rate of two shifts and 102 drawers a day, the project should be completed before the beginning of the fall semester on September 13.

Users will browse the electronic catalog cards on 40 computers running NEXTSTEP, a graphics environment developed by NeXT, Inc. The workstations, powered by Intel 486 processors, will be located in Firestone Library and at all branch locations that now have card catalogs. Although users will still need to execute two searches to cover all the library's holdings, they will be able to perform both on computer and thus realize a savings in time and effort.

Maintenance of the pre-1980 card catalog will be performed on the electronic version only, meaning that the paper cards will become increasingly obsolete after completion of the scanning project. The paper card catalog will be removed as soon as the electronic version has proven to be working efficiently and effectively.

Dog Bite

Dennison on whether or not there was enough evidence to warrant convening a panel.

"She was never definite about which animal had bitten her. She was never clear if it had been Tarreq." Mrs. Dennison had stated at a crowded hearing in Borough Hall in May that she was walking with her Shih Tzu dog, Koko, on the corner of Olden Lane and Battle Road when three dogs came out of the Johnson gate with their dog walker. Two of the dogs broke free of their leash when they saw Koko.

Officer's Prerogative

Richard Altman of the firm of Pellettieri, Rabstein and Altman, who is representing Mr. Johnson in the case, stated at Monday's meeting that it is unequivocally the prerogative of the health officer, not the health commission, to decide to form a vicious dog panel. "This statute," he observed, "has never been tested in court and could have resulted in a long, drawn out legal process."

Mr. Hinshillwood, Mr. Altman added, will be given a plan of action to address each area of concern about Tarreq before the Johnsons return home at the end of the summer. Following the Dennison bite incident, Tarreq was sent to the Johnson's summer home on Nantucket Island, where she is undergoing obedience training.

Under the plan, Mr. Altman reported, the Johnsons will spend approximately $35,000 for structural changes to their fence here to make it more secure. The fence will have a three-foot cement base underground so none of the dogs can dig out from underneath. Gates will be electronically controlled so that anyone attempting to enter will first have to buzz the house. In addition, there will be strict guidelines imposed for walking the dogs — Tarreq, a Golden Retriever and a Black Labrador — so an incident similar to that involving Mrs. Dennison will not be repeated.

Said Mr. Altman, "Lots of allegations got pushed together with emotions at that first meeting, resulting in a highly charged atmosphere — and several unsubstantiated charges.

"I know Tarreq. Tarreq is not a vicious dog."

Borough Clearly Realizes Excess Parking Revenue

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The July 14 issue of TOWN TOPICS gave front page display to a claim by the Borough that the $1.4 million it earns in parking fees and fines "isn't even enough to cover costs associated with parking operations." Apparently, the Borough could actually save about $150,000 if it stopped charging for parking. Township residents would be very pleased about that.

But of course the Borough does not lose money, and it is not about to do away with parking meters. The Borough is simply trying to downplay the amount of parking revenue it receives in response to those of us in the Township who believe that the Borough's significant sources of non-tax revenue ought to be considered when apportioning the costs of joint agencies between the Township and the Borough. Those costs are now based solely on the amount of ratables in each municipality.

The Borough's rather expansive definition of the "costs associated with parking revenues" is, to say the least, a bit of a stretch. These include items such as "debt service on roads and sidewalks," "police costs relating to the commercial district," "litter collection and disposal" and "street lighting."

Does the Borough seriously expect us to believe that it would not light or police the streets, clean the gutters or build roads and sidewalks if it did not have parking meters? These are normal municipal operations. The Township incurs costs for similar necessities, and it does not have parking meters and park-shop lots.

The Borough clearly realizes excess revenue from its parking operations. Otherwise it would not be able to claim that its parking revenues support items such as street cleaning or road repair. And without excess revenue, why would it bother to be in the parking business in the first place?

We realize that the issue of cost-sharing for joint agencies continues to be a source of friction between the Township and the Borough. But the search for equity must be grounded in common sense and reasonable assumptions.

Don't Park in CBD: It Costs the Borough!

To the Editor, Town Topics:

It was interesting to read about the deficit in Borough parking operations (TOWN TOPICS, July 14).

Actually the situation is even worse than described. Omitted from the costs were the salaries of Borough Council members. After all, they spend time in enacting the parking ordinances. That and the kitchen sink were about all that was omitted.

Since the debt service on roads and sidewalks was included, are we to conclude that were it not for parking meters, the Borough would not need roads and sidewalks? As for police costs, I thought that the job of policing the parking violations belonged to the person in that neat brown uniform.

Litter collection is, of course, important. I suppose that refers to picking up the wrappers from the rolls of coins that people use to feed the meters.

Having read about the costs the Borough incurs, I am now somewhat reluctant to park in the Central Business District. It embarrasses me that every time I put a quarter in a parking meter, it is costing the Borough taxpayers money.

Stop Whining, Borough, & Reduce Meter Charges

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Ho-Ho-Ho and Ha-Ha-Ha! Parking charges in the Borough don't cover costs? Let's examine that.

You say (TOWN TOPICS, July 14) debt service on roads and sidewalks, police costs in the CBD, litter collection and disposal, and street lighting totaled $991,400 last year? While costs directly associated with parking regulation and facilities came to $499,000? And revenue from meters and lot fees and parking fines only added up to $1,395,000? Leaving a deficit of $157,000?

Well that $991,400 represents expenditures that would largely accrue anyway (e.g., the services listed above when non-parking related, for nights and weekends, residential areas, through traffic, public transportation, parking outside of regulated areas, delivery trucks, private sanitation trucks, fire and other public vehicles), even if there were no indisputably parking-related costs. This leaves us with something closer to $896,000 profit for the Borough coffers ... not to mention the value to merchants in the CBD and the ratables thus generated by convenient parking.

So stop this slippery whining and reduce the meter charges and parking ticket cost. Get all those other users to bear their fair share.

(Note: Additional discrepancy. Using Borough figures, I tot up $1,490,400 in expenditures as against their $1,552,400, a differential of $62,000, which would bring their claimed deficit down to $95,000.)

We Must Show Our Support

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This letter pertains to the "mass exodus" of administrators in our school district. We are very lucky that the number of departures didn't increase to eight with Dr. Robert Ginsberg, Littlebrook's principal, leaving us also. However, unlike the others, he's staying; at least for now. But beware! He has sent a message just as the others. He's looking elsewhere!

Has it occurred to him to apply to fill a vacant position here in our district? Has he been given any incentive? Has there been any active soliciting? What about the remaining elementary principals, John Kazmark and William Cirullo? Have they been given reason to pursue further employment here or are they looking elsewhere, too? Maybe it's just a matter of time ...

Quite frankly, I'm frightened. I'm dreading a day when no one in the education field will want to work here. Do we support our administrators, teachers, and school board enough so that they will want to continue here? I'm guessing that we don't.

It would seem to me that the time is past due, and we should all as a community inundate every newspaper, board member, and remaining administrator with letters or phone calls. Vent your anger, show your support, propose solutions! If we don't get "the message," and get it fast, there shall no longer be a Robert Ginsberg here for our children. That would be a major mistake.

Church & Dwight Company Environmentally Friendly

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are writing in response to the letter of Mr. Paul E. Honer which appeared in the July 14 edition of your newspaper.

First of all, it is important to understand that Church & Dwight Company adheres to the highest environmental standards. We are proud to have developed and marketed products and processes which support the environment. Arm & Hammer Baking Soda (bicarbonate of soda) long has found acceptance in American homes as an environmentally sensible household cleaning and deodorizing product.

One of the principal functions of our Princeton facility is to conduct research leading to development of bicarbonate-related products and processes which help the environment. Recently, our research has led to new, environmentally important uses for our baking soda, such as purification of drinking water, environmentally-safe industrial cleaning, and as a non-toxic replacement for CFCs in electronic circuit-board cleaning.

We are committed to ensuring that all our operations, including our Princeton research facility, are conducted in a manner consistent with sound environmental principles as well as regulatory requirements.

In line with this, we can assure the community that every step is being taken to carry out the renovation of our Princeton facility in an environmentally responsible manner, consistent with protection of area wetlands. To this end we have worked closely and cooperatively with the Princeton Regional Planning Board and other agencies.

In closing, we wish to correct some misstatements: We would never carry out any action which would "threaten groundwater." Furthermore, Mr. Honer's assertion that there will be "truckloads of toxins" is simply not true and never will be true in the future. Finally, we do not conduct manufacturing in Princeton and have no plan to do so.

We are confident we will continue to be both responsible citizens of Princeton Township and productive members of the vibrant Princeton area Research & Development community for many years to come.

Don't Allow Bank to Tear Down Kiosk

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Borough Council's decision to allow the United Jersey Bank to demolish, at its own expense, the kiosk at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon streets despite the request of Anne Reeves of the Arts Council for a six-month trial period to modify and maintain the kiosk is a sad and unfortunate occurrence. The desire of a bank to remove what it perceives to be visual obstructions and to sanitize the town should not take precedence over the community's need for information and communication.

Many of us recognize that the kiosk has been sadly neglected and needs attention. I commend Roger Martindell for his recommendation for a three-month trial period, but unfortunately the bank would not guarantee cooperation under those circumstances.

Why is the bank being allowed to decide that the kiosk will be torn down? This is an insult to the people of Princeton. Our town and our Borough Council should not be held hostage by the bank's ultimatum to not guarantee the money to tear it down if a trial period is granted, especially when the decision should not be made by the bank in the first place. Why is Borough Council so eager to comply with the bank's wishes? The requests of Anne Reeves and Roger Martindell were entirely reasonable and no harm would be done by waiting, rather than by performing a disruptive and irreversible procedure immediately.

This sets a dangerous precedent for anyone with money to be able to dictate what the Borough should and should not do. The taxpayers of Princeton Borough spent a considerable amount of money to build this kiosk, and whether or not the kiosks should have been built in the first place seems irrelevant at this point. The money has already been spent, for better or worse, and the investment should be protected if at all possible.

The collection of newspaper vending machines adjacent to the kiosk is every bit as much of an eyesore, yet the first amendment rights of the users of the kiosk, which represents freedom of speech in its purest form, seem to be eclipsed by the first amendment rights of newspapers operating for profit.

I therefore urge the Borough Council to examine the position from which they make their decisions, and the criteria used in determining what is in the best interests of the entire community.

Summer Theater's "Little Shop of Horrors" Injects Energy into the Local Theater Scene

Nothing like a mixture of camped up rock 'n' roll, horror film spoof, romance and a little bloodthirsty violence to inject some energy into the local theater scene, and Princeton Summer Theater's Little Shop of Horrors fills the bill. Playing at Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus over the next two weekends, the 1982 Off-Broadway hit musical (adapted into a highly acclaimed 1986 film version) is described by Howard Ashman, co-author with Alan Menken, as "an updated version of the Faust legend."

It is the story, set in a plant store on Skid Row, of Seymour, a naive florist's assistant who discovers an eccentric plant with an appetite for human flesh and blood. The plant brings much-needed business to the shop, and fame, fortune and true love to Seymour. But this greedy constituent of the vegetable kingdom demands a high price for Seymour's success.

The story, derived from a 1960 Roger Corman horror film, is outrageously entertaining; the music is upbeat and appealing; the macabre humor is sharp; the characters are bizarre, grotesque and interesting; and the lyrics are clever and amusing. As Seymour laments in feeding his carnivorous plant, "I've given you sunlight/I've given you rain/Looks like you're not happy/'Less I open a vein."

The scene-stealer of the whole show, however, is Audrey II, the rapidly growing plant named after Seymour's co-worker and love interest. This monstrous talking and singing vegetation develops faster and faster as Seymour tries to satisfy its increasingly adamant demands for human flesh. A colorful creation indeed, Audrey II eventually dominates the entire Murray Theater stage, devouring everyone in sight.

DREAMING OF SOMEWHERE THAT'S GREEN are "Little Shop of Horrors" stars Jen Grant (as Audrey) and Joe Southard (Seymour). The macabre musical will play for the next two weekends at Murray Theater on the University campus.

Talented Performers

Directed by Madeleine de Matteis, a recent Princeton University graduate, with musical direction by graduate student Matthew Grayson, Little Shop of Horrors features an effectively broad and interesting range of talented performers. Ensemble numbers are strong and well rehearsed, with an effective balance between singers and the lively five-piece rock band.

An additional shot or two of adrenalin to pick up the pace between the scenes and on some of the high-spirited musical numbers would provide all that's needed to lift this already engaging show out of an occasional languid moment.

Joe Southard is the shy, amorous protagonist, a bit too much of an exaggerated caricature in the early scenes, but increasingly strong and convincing as the musical progresses, and an impressively strong singer. He teams up with Jen Grant as Audrey for the show-stopping romantic duet, "Suddenly, Seymour," early in the second act.

Ms. Grant, doubling as technical director of the show, is excellent, vocally and dramatically, as Audrey. This is another larger-than-life character, and Ms. Grant strikes just the right comic balance as the wide-eyed, sweet shopworker who dreams of marriage to Seymour and a house in the suburbs: "Somewhere That's Green," where she can "cook like Betty Crocker and look like Donna Reed."

Potent Vocal Support

As Chiffon, Crystal and Ronnette, a '60s' Girls' Group Chorus, Amy Edwards, Olive Joseph and Emily Jacobs provide potent vocal support, pungent commentary on the drama and a bop-shoo-bop background reminiscent of the Shirelles and Motown in its heyday. Ms. Joseph's superb voice and characterization, along with Ms. Jacobs confident stage presence and dramatic gestures, help make this group a highlight of the production.

Another veteran area performer, Brian Bara, presents a solid and convincing Mushnik, the irascible store owner and boss of Seymour and Audrey.

Don Dale is the sadistic dentist, Audrey's abusive boyfriend and Audrey II's first victim: "looks like plant food to me!" Mr. Dale's comic number with Chiffon, Crystal and Ronnette, "Dentist!", is a definite winner, though one hopes for a bit more poise and dynamism from Mr. Dale as the show gels in the coming weeks. (Comparisons to Steve Martin's tour de force performance as the movie's "leader of the plaque" may be unfair.)

Mr. Dale spends a busy evening, taking on four additional, albeit brief, roles in the second act, and though his energy, versatility and speed in changing costumes are impressive, he is unquestionably overworked here. He is not always able to articulate successfully the distinctly different characterizations.

Athletic Plant

Dallas Dickinson is funny and memorable as the powerful voice of Audrey II, a role played by Levi Stubbs of the Four Tops in the movie, and Elizabeth Suydam as Puppeteer takes charge of Audrey II's increasingly athletic movements. Both Ms. Suydam and Mr. Dickinson provide additional support in convincing walk-on roles in the first act (before Audrey II gets its voice and movements into high gear).

Set design by Jen Grant, an almost cartoonish city street brick wall that comes down in parts to reveal the plant shop, is appropriate and functional, though the transformations between interior and exterior do need to be accomplished with less delay.

Lighting design by Karen Schlesinger and Carb Cummings-Caci artfully creates the mood and complements both musical and dramatic moments of the show, while Kristine Watson's costume designs successfully evoke these eccentric characters of 35 years ago. Though dancing in this show is minimal, Shelley Lightman's choreography does move the individuals and groups effectively on the small Murray Theater Stage.

Audrey II will be taking her nightly feedings in Little Shop of Horrors Thursday through Sunday at 8 p.m. over the next two weekends, with additional matinee performances at 2 p.m. on Sundays. Call 258-4950 for reservations and further information.

"Love's Labor's Lost" By Shakespeare Summer

McCarter Theatre's 12th annual Shakespeare Summer will present five performances of Shakespeare's romantic comedy Love's Lobor's Lost on Friday, July 30, at 7; Saturday, July 31, at 2 and 7, and Sunday, August 1, at 2 and 6. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and will be sold at the door. All performances will take place at McCarter Theatre, 91 University Place.

Under the direction of Laura Huntsman, Love's Lobor's Lost represents the culmination of McCarter's Shakespeare Summer program for teens ages 14 and up. Selected through competitive auditions, participants in the intensive five-week program study all aspects of theater, including acting, voice, movement, stage combat, and playwriting. In addition to the workshops, students work on individual scene presentations, prepare for a musical cabaret, and rehearse for the culminating production.

The 1993 Summer Shakespeare ensemble of 26 includes 19 returning alumni.

Participants include Leah Aron, Tehila Exrahi, Emily Raboteau, Suzanne Houston, Tasha Hussey, Jen Swanson, Alex Warner and Claudia Woloshin, all of Princeton; Ariana Markoe and Shelley Wollert, both of Lawrenceville; Meghan Doyle of Pennington; Gena Leimbacher of Plainsboro; and Jennifer Palan of Belle Mead.

For the first time, six interns, all of whom are alumni of the program and have gone on to pursue further study in theater, are assisting in all aspects of the program. They are Megan McCrudden of Princeton, Jacob Greenberg of Lawrenceville, Chris Parks of Somerset, Mark Rifkin of East Windsor and Adrian Witzke of Flemington. Dave McGraw of Lawrenceville is stage managing the production.

For more information, call McCarter Outreach at 683-9100, extension 6166.

BRUSH UP YOUR SHAKESPEARE: Seven Princeton teens are participating in McCarter Theatre's 12th annual Shakespeare Summer program. The 5-week program culminates in a full production of Shakespeare's comedy "Love's Labor's Lost."

Musical direction is by Matt Anderson and choreography by Linda Kay.

The cast includes Marla Endick, Mimi Francis, Rich Johnson, Beth Juskow, Kathy Keith, Steve Murin, Jay Rollins, Cindy Sherbin and Mark Weissman.

Steve Pilkington will lead a Hymn Sing Monday at 8 in Bristol Chapel on the Choir College campus. Mr. Pilkington is the interim head of the Church Music Department at Westminster. The Engelchor Consort will perform a concert Tuesday at noon in Williamson Hall on the Westminster campus.

ChamberWorks, a progressive chamber music ensemble, will perform a recital Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in Williamson Hall. Entitled "No Strings Attached: Oboe and Piano Recital," it will feature pianist John Forconi and oboist George Corbett. The program will include works by Nielsen, Lutoslawski, Pierre-Petit, Schumann and Britten.

Also on Tuesday, a Sing-in featuring Mozart's Requiem will be conducted hy Melanie Jacobson. Ms. Jacobson is a member of the conducting faculty at Westminster where she is the assistant conductor of the Westminster Symphonic Choir.

Lucille Reilly will perform a hammered dulcimer recital Wednesday, July 28, at 7. Ms. Reilly is a nationally known performer and instructor of the hammered dulcimer, a forerunner to the piano.

Also on Wednesday, July 28, Fuma Sacra, conducted by Andrew Megill, will perform a recital featuring works by Bach, Buxtehude and Distler. Fuma Sacra is a vocal ensemble specializing in Medieval and Renaissance music. In addition to recitals in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York, Fuma Sacra has performed at the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy, and has been heard throughout Europe in a special BBC Radio production highlighting American music.

Preston Smith will perform in an organ concert Sunday, August 1. His program will include works by Bach, Hindemith, Langlais and Sweelinck. Mr. Smith is a graduate student at Westminster Choir College, studying organ performance.

Music of the '50s and '60s In Mercer County Park

Music-in-the-Park will present First Class Act, a revue of music of the '50s and '60s, Saturday at 7 during the Mercer County 4-H and Farmers show at Mercer County Park in West Windsor.

The quartet presents a chronological history of rock 'n' roll from 1955 to 1969. The featured group highlighted is the Beach Boys, and their songs about surfin', cars and girls. Music of Bill Haley and the Comets, Elvis Presley, Chuck Berry, Little Richard and the Everly Brothers and many more will be presented.

For further information call the Mercer County Park Commission, 989-6530 or the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission, 989-6899.

The Blawenburg Band In South Brunswick

The Blawenburg Band will perform Friday at the third concert of South Brunswick's outdoor music series.

The concert starts at 7 sharp and concludes by 8:30. It takes place in the amphitheater at the Woodlot Park complex, New Road, Kendall Park. The rain site is the air-conditioned senior center in the municipal complex on Route 522 (Ridge Road) in Monmouth Junction.

The Blawenburg Band recreates an era of musical Americana that has virtually vanished — the old town band of a century ago formed in 1890. Before radio, television, movies, and even the phonograph, the Blawenburg Band, like other bands of its type and time, consisted of amateur musicians. Back then, Blawenburg was a small farming community about four miles from Princeton.

Townsmen like the blacksmith and the storekeeper formed an 18-member band which provided a musical setting to community events such as parades, picnics, church socials and patriotic gatherings. Today's band is comprised of 30 members (both men and women), ranging in age from teens to the late 70s.

The Blawenburg Band's concerts include a wide selection of music ranging from rousing patriotic songs, foot stomping marches, ragtime rhythms and melodic waltzes, to familiar show tunes and Dixieland jazz.

For more information about the concert, call the South Brunswick Department of Recreation and Community Affairs at 908-297-4433. Bring lawn chairs or blankets for seating; picnics or tailgating is welcome, but alcohol is prohibited.

Chamber Music Series By Waterloo Faculty

The faculty of the Waterloo Music Festival, in residence at Princeton University, is performing a chamber music series Friday evenings at Richardson Auditorium on the Princeton University campus. The performances, which begin at 8:30, include seldom heard works by modern and American composers in addition to standard repertory.

The performance this Friday includes two organ chorale preludes by J.S. Bach, Lullaby by George Gershwin, L'Oracion del torero by Turina, Wolf's Italian Serenode, and Glinka's Piano Sextet. On Friday, July 30, the faculty will perform two organ chorale preludes by J.S. Bach, Trio in E Flat by Donizetti, Samuel Barber's Summer Music, a

Two Eclectic Musicians At Monthly Coffeehouse

The Stony Brook Coffeehouse, held in the Stony Brook Gallery, will present The Eclectibilly Brothers on Saturday, July 24.

Ralph Litwin and Lew Gelfond return to the coffeehouse bringing with them the magic of "eclectibilly," the duo's presentation of original and cover tunes from many styles of music, usually performed with a country flavor. Among the styles represented are old-time, traditional and contemporary country, blues, ragtime, calypso, Dixieland, jazz, western swing, jugband and folk.

Ralph Litwin will perform primarily on banjo but he also plays guitar and harmonica. Mr. Litwin has twice won the New Jersey Old Style Banjo Championship. Mr. Gelfond will perform primarily on fiddle but may also play mandolin and tenor banjo. His fiddle playing has won him honors in a variety of contests in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Colorado.

Stony Brook coffeehouses, featuring fresh acoustic music, are held monthly, usually on the fourth Saturday of the month. During the summer, the performances are held outdoors behind the Buttinger Center near the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association headquarters building. Bring a blanket.

Music begins at 8 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children. Refreshments are available for a small fee. The audience is asked to bring a cup and save a tree.

For more information call 737-7592.

Chamber Concert Series Ends with String Quartets

On Thursday, July 29, two award-winning string quartets will come together for an evening of music-making. The Miami String Quartet and the Ying Quartet will perform on the final concert of the Princeton University Summer Chamber Concerts. The concert will be held at Richardson Auditorium, Princeton University and begins at 8 p.m. Admission is free but tickets will be required.

In 1992, the Miami String Quartet became the first such ensemble in a decade to win First Prize of the Concert Artists Guild New York Competition, and was also awarded the competition's ITT Corporation Prize. The Miami String Quartet was also laureate of the 1991 Evian String Quartet Competition and the 1991 London International String Quartet Competition; in 1989, it won the Grand Prize of the Fischoff Chamber Music Competition.

The ensemble's interest in new music has led to a commissioning grant from Chamber Music America for a piano quintet from Maurice Gardner, which received its world premiere in January 1993. Previous premieres include Mr. Gardner's Concertino and David Baker's Summer Memories. The members of the Miami String Quartet are Felicia Moye and Cathy Meng Robinson, violins; Chauncey Patterson, viola; and Keith Robinson, cello.

The Ying Quartet, winner of the 1993 Naumburg Chamber Music Award, made its New York City debut in May 1991 at Lincoln Center. Since its inception, the Quartet has maintained a busy performance schedule. The members of the Ying Quartet are Timothy Ying and Janet Ying, violins; Phillip Ying, viola; and David Ying, cello.

The concert will open with a performance by the Miami String Quartet of the String Quartet in C Major, Op. 20, No. 2 by Haydn. This will be followed by the Ying Quartet performing Ravel's String Quartet in F Major. After intermission, the concert will conclude with a joint performance of the Mendelssohn Octet in E-flat Major, Op. 20. Written when Mendelssohn was only 16 years old, he later called it "my favorite of all my compositions. I had a most wonderful time in the writing of it."

Tickets can be picked up at the Richardson Auditorium box office Monday through Friday, 4 to 7 p.m. and from 4 to 8 p.m. on the evening of the performance. There is a two-ticket per patron restriction. Tickets for the July 29 concert will become available on Wednesday, July 21. The box office will not take telephone reservations. Box office phone number (for information only) is 258-5000.

The comedy Lo Nonno ("The Italian Grandmother") will be performed in Spanish with simultaneous English translation by Repertorio Espanol (Spanish Repertory Theater) Thursday through Saturday at 8 in the New Theater of Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18 in New Brunswick.

Written by Roberto Cossa, an Argentinian, the play portrays a family of Italian extraction living in Buenos Aires as it is driven into poverty by its centenarian grandmother, who is eating them out of house and home. Her family's efforts to avoid ruin become schemes to get rid of Nonna. But the great survivor is as impervious to their plots as she has been to time for a century.

PRINCETON ARTIST, PRINCETON SHOW: Shown is one of the multi-media works of Princeton artist Bill Teague now at the WPA Gallery of the Arts Council. Co-sponsored by the Arts Council and Corner House, the exhibit will be open through July 30. Gallery hours are from 10 to 6 Tuesday through Friday, and from 10 to 4 Saturday.

Photography Exhibitions At University Art Museum

Three exhibitions of photographs will open at the Princeton University Art Museum on August 3. Drawn from the museum's permanent collection, the images range from works taken from an album assembled in England when photography was new, to the work of contemporary American photographers. The exhibitions will remain on view through September 12.

The exhibitions have been organized by Peter C. Bunnell, faculty curator of photography, and Toby A. Jurovics, assistant curator of photography. Commenting on the exhibitions, Mr. Bunnell said, "These three exhibitions give us an opportunity to display the richness and diversity of the museum's collection of photographs. Our holdings in contemporary imagery represent some of the strongest work being done by today's artists without regard to medium. In the Metzker exhibition, we have an opportunity to show the range of a photographer's 30-year career."

"Empire: British Nineteenth-Century Photographs" highlights a selection of photographs from an album assembled around 1870 by the British Amateur Photographic Association. The album contains a number of prize-winning photographs from the Association's annual contest that Jurovics describes as, "an interesting and accurate gauge of the style and taste of British photography as it developed in the 1860s."

The exhibition includes landscape and genre photographs of England, as well as Egypt, Greece, China, and India, reflecting the travels of the Association's members and friends.

"Contemporary Photographs" focuses on large works, which increasingly have become the format of modern photographic artists. Many of the pictures are in color, and one work, The Temperaments (Icarian) by William Parker, has hand-painted additions. There are several works executed in black and white, including an especially important work by Kenneth Snelson, the well-known sculptor, of a majestic, panoramic view of the Brooklyn Bridge. Among the artists represented are several prominent women artists, including Sarah Charlesworth, Eileen Cowin, and Barbara Ess.

"Ray Metzker: Photographs 1957-1989," is a small retrospective drawn from the museum's extensive holdings of this imiportant photographer's work. Born in 1931, Mr. Metzker is a resident of Philadelphia. Working only in black and white, he is widely known for his strong, high-contrast prints of images of Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Chicago, and, more recently, the south of France. One large-format piece from 1966, Sky Sweeps, is a recently acquired work constructed from several small prints that have been assembled to form an abstract configuration.

Work of Two Painters At Stony Brook Gallery

Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will open an art exhibit at the Stony Brook Gallery in the Buttinger Center on Saturday. A reception will be held from 1:30 to 3:30, at which all are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

The exhibit will feature the artwork of two New Jersey artists. Marguerite Doernbach of Trenton will exhibit her colorful paintings in a variety of media. Ms. Doernbach has exhibited extensively throughout New Jersey and elsewhere.

Linda Rossin of Mountain Lakes will display her wildlife paintings. Working in acrylic and oils, Ms. Rossin gives an impressionistic influence to her depiction of birds and mammals in their environment. She participated in an assortment of group shows, often focusing on wildlife.

The exhibit will run through September 3. The gallery is open Wednesday through Friday from 10 to 5 and Saturday from 10 to 4.

For further information call 737-7592.

Exhibits

The exhibition, "Nowhere to Go; The Holocaust Series," ten mixed-media cutout canvas works by Grace Graupe-Pillard, will open in the Friends' Gallery at the New Jersey State Museum on August 14.

The artist, a resident of Freehold, and a recipient of a New Jersey State council on the Arts Fellowship and a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, was educated at the City College of New York and at the Art Students League. Over the last two decades she has had one-person exhibitions at Douglass College, Kean College and Rowan College; at the Aljira Gallery at Newark and at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts at Summit. Additionally, her work has been in numerous group exhibitions.

The exhibition will remain on view through November 7.

An exhibition of multi-media works by Bill Teague of Princeton is on display at The W.P.A. Gallery of the Arts Council. It is co-sponsored by Corner House and the Arts Council, and may be seen through July 30.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

John Bernard — Jay Bernard

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

One of the most unbelievable pitching records of all time was by Stanley Coveleski, who pitched in the majors from 1912 to 1928 ... In one game, Coveleski — incredibly — went 7 innings WITHOUT EVER THROWING A CALLED BALL ... EVERY pitch he threw was either swung at, or was a called strike ... No other big league pitcher ever had that much pin-point control for that long a time.

Did you know that Reggie Jackson, who will be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame this year, once — amazingly — hit 3 homers on 3 consecutive swings in a game ... It happened in the 1977 World Series ... In 3 consecutive at bats, Jackson swung at the first pitch — and hit a home run each time.

Here's one hard to figure about baseball ... It's surprising that teams don't try to steal bases more often — because figures from just about every year show an attempted steal works far more often than not ... For instance, last season in the majors, 4,865 stolen bases were tried ... 3,264 were successful, and only 1,601 attempts failed.

Playoffs Start Thursday In Women's Softball Loop

The Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body team will be in the thick of the post-season playoffs that start Thursday at Mercer Park in the Women's Softball League.

Ficarro's was scheduled to play its 24th and final regular-season game against Leonard's earlier in the week. It entered the final week tied for fourth place with Mercer Spring, both teams owning 12-11 records.

Miller Lite and Three Seasons are currently tied for the league lead with 18-5 records with Grove Plumbing a half-game back at 17-5. If there is a tie between two contenders, a playoff game to determine the regular league champion will be held before the playoffs begin.

Should Ficarro's and Mercer Spring end up tied, Mercer Spring would be awarded fourth place on the basis of its having a 2-1 edge over Ficarro's in regular season play.

The first- and second-place teams receive a bye. On Thursday at 6:30, three vs. six; four vs. five at 7:30. All playoff games will be held on Field 3. On Tuesday, the 27th, the Steve Ficarro/Mercer Spring winner will play the first-place team at 6:30; the second-place finisher will play the winner of three vs. six at 7:30.

The two surviving teams will meet in a best two-out-of-three series for the playoff championship. The first game will be played the same night (Tuesday) at 8:30.

The second game will be played next Thursday, the 29th, at 6:30. If a third game is necessary, it will follow at 7:30.

In games last week, Ficarro's spanked winless Matt & Al's, 11-1, and earlier, in a key win, defeated Mercer Spring for the first time, 7-1.

Against 0-23 Matt and Al's, Cindy Lombardo, Karen Wagner and Grace Moylan all homered for Ficarro's. Beth Ault, Dee Dee Prickett, Wagner and Lombardo all cracked two hits apiece. Carol Ann Mazzella was the winning pitcher with Sandi Hibbs in relief.

The win over Mercer Spring featured some sparkling defensive play by Ficarro's, highlighted by a pair of shoestring grabs of sinking line drives by Ellen Leader in left center field. Hibbs' glove work at shortstop was outstanding.

At the plate, the ones who have been leading the offense all season came through again for Ficarro's. Ault had three hits in three at bats; Moylan rapped two hits and drove in two runs; Lombardo chipped in with two hits, including a triple, and Donna Nicholson scored two runs.

Mazzella did her part on the mound in fashioning a five-hitter. "You can't ask for much more than that," said general manager Bob Smyth.

READY FOR PLAYOFFS: Steve Ficarro pitcher Carol Ann Mazzella hopes to pitch her team to victory in the Women's Softball League playoffs.

Post 218 Upsets Post 31 But Loses Princeton War

Princeton Post 218 lost its Battle of the Princeton Posts last week but it won an even bigger battle.

As this season of "firsts" winds down for Post 218 — most wins, first year to win more than two in a row — Post 218 added yet another: first win ever over a Hamilton team in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Princeton Post 76's Gary Botto blanked Post 218 on a two-hitter Saturday for a 9-0 win, as Post 76 won the season's series between the two clubs, two games to one. Geoff Spies and Nathan Dean had the two hits for Post 218, while visiting Post 76 collected ten hits off Post 218 starter Sam Boraie and reliever Dan Wilson. Botto fanned ten in winning for the fourth time.

Outfielder John Ramirez led the Post 76 offense with two hits, driving in two runs with a triple in the seventh. Dave Urbanek also had two hits in three at bats for the winners.

Disappointing as the loss to Post 76 was, nothing could take away from Post 218's finest moment of the season two days earlier. Consider: Post 218 was playing the league's leader, Hamilton Post 31, on Hamilton's home field. It had never defeated a team stocked with Hamilton players. It was trailing, 4-0 after two innings.

The Princeton team cut the lead to one with three runs in the third off losing pitcher Jeff Fennelli. Then it plated four more in the fourth before knocking Fennelli out of the game, taking advantage of a Hamilton error and an RBI single by Dan Wilson that proved to be the game-winner.

Hamilton scored two more runs off starter Jeff Tantum in the fifth to narrow the gap to 7-6 but Wilson came on to pitch 2⅔ innings of scoreless relief to nail down the stunning upset. Post 218 was outhit, 10 to 5, but it took advantage of 11 walks issued by Fennelli, whose record dropped to 1-4.

Nathan Dean drove in two runs for Post 218. Matt DeVeau, Mike Procaccini, Wilson, Kyle Mapps and Mike Nolan accounted for all of Post 218's hits. Tantum, who is expected to be a mainstay on the Princeton High mound staff next year, evened his record at 3-3.

Post 218 began the week with a 3-0 loss to Ewing, as Post 314 hurler Jermaine Parker spun a three-hitter. Ewing would score all the runs it would need when Derrick Johnson doubled in a run in the first when the victors plated two runs off losing pitcher Jeremy Rathbone. Rathbone (1-4) did not pitch that badly, striking out two and allowing just six hits, but his teammates were unable to solve Parker.

Sam Boraie, Mapps and Scott Muzyk were the only Post 218 batters to get a hit.

UP FOR TWO: Geoff Card of Bergman & Barrett gets off a short jumper against SMB, as Ray Gregory and George Strand wait to pounce on rebound.

Post 76 Wins, Loses

Post 76 preceded its win over Post 218 by being nipped, 4-3, by Hightstown and defeating North Trenton, 11-6.

The loss to Hightstown on Thursday hurt. Post 76 was leading 3-0 when Post 148 cut the lead with two runs in the fourth. In the fifth, it scored two more, including the game-winner on a suicide squeeze by Peter Barron that scored Ernie Doggett.

Hightstown, which stayed in the thick of the playoff picture with its 12th win, received a solid pitching performance from Dave Gorner, who held Post 76 to three hits and fanned ten. He retired the last 15 batters he faced. Post 76 catcher Ryan Spruill had one of Princeton's three hits and drove in two of its three runs.

Post 76 wasted little time in building a big lead over North Trenton in its opening game of the week. It scored five in the first and added three more in the second en route to its 11-4 win.

Urbanek connected for three hits in three at bats and drove in two runs to lead Post 76 at the plate. Nick Hsieh and Hassan Collier belted doubles and each drove in two runs during Post 76's 12-hit attack. B.J. Rutkowsky scattered eight hits to pick up his second win of the campaign against five losses.

The standings with two games left to play.

pushing the league championship week set for August 9-13 back a week or ten days. "It's getting worse and worse," admitted Snyder this week.

Chemical Bank clings to first place with a 6-1 record, while SMB and Custom Essence are both a game behind at 5-2. Defending league champion Carnevale Disposal is a half-game back in third place at 4-2.

In the first of three games played Friday at Community Park, Princeton Sports Medicine defeated Gardenscapes, 51-40. Tennyson Lewis and Vint Henley led Sports Medicine, both netting 16 points. Kenji Inomata with 12 points and Greg Coop with 11 were in double figures for the losers.

Conte's stayed in contention by nipping winless and upset-minded Bergman & Barrett, 64-62, in overtime. Conte's Doug Grover led all scorers with 28 while teammates Matt Bastardi and Peter Sharpless each chipped in with 12.

B&B's Geoff Card, headed for St. Michael's in Vermont in the fall on a basketball scholarship, paced the losers with 21 points. Former Princeton Day School standout Dan Ragsdale canned 19 points, 15 in the second half on five three-pointers.

In the nightcap between the league leaders, Chemical Bank handed SMB its second loss, 53-45. Vincente Bowman led the Bankers with 16 points and Wade Hall added 10.

SMB had three players in double figures: Keith Jones, 16, Clarence White, 12, and George Strand, 10.

CONTESTED: SMB's Frank Griffin has the ball and position, as he tries to fight his way through two defenders in a contest with Bergman & Barrett.

Kiosk

The kiosk, along with its twin at the corner of Nassau and Vandeventer, was installed in 1989, when the Nassau Street sidewalk was reconstructed. It replaced a kiosk across Witherspoon Street, which consisted of galvanized metal around an old tree. (The tree was taken out during the sidewalk reconstruction.) A kiosk is said to have been at this intersection — the heart of Princeton — for about 70 years.

The late Mayor Barbara Sigmund wanted there to be a kiosk in a spot where town and gown met, where people could exchange information. But no rules were ever attached to the kiosks, and no one was ever charged with taking care of them. Few onlookers would have called them anything but messy.

The removal order applies only to the kiosk in front of United Jersey. The one in front of the closed Garden Theatre will remain — still without any rules on what may be put up, and how.

Architect Jerry Ford was one who asked that the kiosk remain. "The kiosk is a very important link betwen the University and the town," he said. "I urge you not to assume cleanliness is godliness in the community. I think you are oversanitizing Princeton."

Township resident Beth Heally compared Princeton, with Wellesley, Mass., where she grew up. "Wellesley is very tidy, very controlled, very boring. The kiosk in a small way represents character, openness and diversity. I appreciate the problem UJB has. We will try to make it look attractive."

Borough resident Lawrence Dupraz called the kiosk ugly and said it was a great hangout for kids at night. "I would like to see it removed."

Majority Don't Care

Mr. Freda said he was very secure that the majority of people in town don't care if the kiosk is there. "It's an eyesore, ugly. I don't see why we have to debate it."

In the audience was Robin Smith, a Borough resident who, on her own, has been trying to tidy up the kiosk. She said her main concern was what Barbara Sigmund would think if she saw it.

Ms. Smith said she would like to see arrangements made to have the kiosk properly taken care of, and to see it painted.

Over the weekend, the Arts Council's Anne Reeves, along with Borough resident Bill Teague, cleaned up the kiosk. They took down all duplicate notices, and arranged the others. She said it took about 15 minutes.

"I can see why people get upset," said Ms. Reeves. "It has never been painted or monitored, and there have never been guidelines."

Ms. Reeves had planned to get Arts Council volunteers to care for the kiosk during the three-month trial period, had she been given the chance. If this had saved the life of the kiosk, she said she then would have sought student volunteers on a regular basis, perhaps involving the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts in the effort.

The elimination of the kiosk is expected to cost between $5,000 and $6,000. It involves removing concrete, replacing the phones in phone units, and finding another place to house the electric meters for the pedestrian light at Nassau and Witherspoon. Right now, all these are housed in the kiosk.

For one resident's views on the kiosk's pending removal, see Mailbox, page 17.

—Myrna K. Bearse

A CLEANER, TIDIER KIOSK: Like a kid who has been told he can't have dessert until he cleans his room, the kiosk on the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon suddenly improved in appearance over the weekend. The transformation came four days after Borough Council ordered its removal.

OBITUARIES

Herbert McAneny

Herbert McAneny, 90, longtime Princeton school teacher and theatrical personality, died July 19 at the Princeton Medical Center, after a lengthy battle with prostate cancer.

After teaching at Milton Academy and a brief career with Century Publishing in New York, Mr. McAneny and his late wife Marguerite, moved to Princeton in 1931. For the next four decades, he taught and directed plays at Princeton Country Day and later the Princeton Day School. The McAnenys were charter members of the Princeton Community Players in 1933. Mr. McAneny's own amateur acting career began more than 75 years ago at the Riverdale School in New York City, from which he graduated in 1919.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Williams College in 1923, he also received a B.A. from Lincoln College of Oxford University, converted to an M.A. on the occasion of his 90th birthday, at which time he was cited by New Jersey Governor Jim Florio for his six decades of service to his adopted town and state. An avid outdoorsman, he was an early member of the Adirondack '46ers, an elite group of climbers who have conquered all 46 of the "high peaks" in New York state's Adirondack Mountains.

A past president of The Historical Society, Mr. McAneny devoted his final years, in addition to a flourishing acting career, to nursing home reading groups, Readings Over Coffee at the Princeton Public Library, and to Recording for the Blind.

He is survived by a son, Colin, of Vicksburg, Miss.; two daughters, Wendy M. Bradburn of Chicago, and Leslie C. McAneny of Princeton; brothers Ernest of Riverdale, N.Y., and David of Paoli, Pa.; a sister, Elisabeth Harrison of Rumson, N.J.; and seven grandchildren.

Burial services, arranged by the Kimble Funeral Home, are private. A memorial service will be held in September.

"BROWNIE"

They call me "Brownie," but I'm really black and tan. If you know your dogs, you'll discover my Pointer and Shepherd relatives. I carry on their lines with pride. And am I staunch. Anyone who needs a watchdog won't be disappointed in me. I am a trusty sentry. My fierceness is only for the threatening. My heart and soul are gentleness itself.

I'm only two years old, but am I street smart. After all that experience in West Windsor, nobody puts anything over on me! If you have some property to be defended, just let me strut my stuff! And in the peaceful hours, you will see how special I can be in all the other ways of dogs and people. Outdoors is my realm, and I need you to return me to it soon.

Brownie is one of the dogs available for adoption at our shelter. Call Lee Ann at 921-6122 to set up an appointment.
